Philharmonic Class, under the direction of Miss Sabilla Novello. The object of this Class is to afford an opportunity to Amateur Singers of improving themselves in the correct and polished Singing of concerted Music. Many Young Ladies, proficient in solo Singing, are unable to undertake a part in concerted Music; but it is hoped that those Amateurs who join the Philharmonic Class will be able to overcome this difficulty. The Music selected for study will be purely classical, and will consist principally of Pieces for two, three, or more female voices. The Class will meet once every week. The lesson will be of an hour's duration, a short portion of which time will be devoted to reading Music at sight. As the number of Students is strictly limited, Ladies desirous of becoming Members of the Philharmonic Class are requested to apply to Miss Sabilla Novello, Craven Hill Cottage, Bayswater.—Terms of Subscription, Two Guineas per Quarter.—A Private Apartment has been prepared for the reception of the Class at the London Sacred Music Warehouse, 69, Dean Street, Soho Square.

To the Musical Public. The following

CIRCULAR has been addressed to Purchasers of Choral and Orchestral Parts, who have been disappointed in the fulfilment of their orders, and is inserted here for the information of those who may want parts in future:—March 16, 1848. Sir,—I regret to inform you, that I am unable to supply for a short time, that portion of your order which consists of Mr. Surman's publications; his answers to my applications being that, "under present circumstances, he declines to fulfil my orders,"—although I always send the money for his goods by the collectors who go for them. Mr. Surman has advertised his parts as sold by me on his title-pages, and induced me to insert the separate parts of Handel's Oratorios in my No. 3 Catalogue: it therefore becomes necessary for me to take this public notice of what I could otherwise have left unheeded. I can only account for this extraordinary course of refusing to sell his music, by attributing it to Mr. Surman's dismissal by the Sacred Harmonic Society, and his consequent wish to put them to temporary inconvenience—in which, unfortunately, you are for the present included. I have even tried to send you the music you want by transferring your order to other London music-sellers, but with no success; and you will readily understand that all must be denied, or the Society could not be prevented from buying the parts they may want. I have taken immediate steps to repair this temporary inconvenience by engraving the whole of the parts which I have been induced to advertise in my catalogue, and considerable progress is already made with them; but as it is unavoidably a work requiring time, my friends, I hope, will have a little patience with me. I will, however, use all diligence, and I can promise them that they shall not long be deprived of the power of purchasing parts, even if Mr. Surman should not awaken to a sense of what he owes to the public who has hitherto supported him. The present unexpected course of Mr. Surman is not altogether without its public advantage, for I am in a manner forced to undertake the printing of these parts, which I should not otherwise have done; and I am thereby enabled to introduce all those improvements which have been so much required. I am, your obedient servant, J. ALFRED NOVELLO.—London Sacred Music Warehouse, 69, Dean-street, Soho, & 24, Poultry.

New Edition.
